own, Golden-winged Warblers are slim, silvery gray birds with golden flashes on the head and wings. They breed in wet, shrubby tangles of the Upper Midwest and Appalachians, and spend winters in open woodlands and shade-coffee plantations. They have suffered severe population declines in the last half-century.

A huge bird of prey, with only the white-tailed eagle larger in the UK. With its long broad wings and longish tail, it has a different outline to the smaller buzzard. It likes to soar and glide on air currents, holding its wings in a shallow 'V'. Eagles have traditional territories and nesting places which may be used by generations.

The bird's wing is a paired forelimb in birds. The wings give the birds the ability to fly, creating lift..

Terrestrial flightless birds have reduced wings or none at all (for example, moa). In aquatic flightless birds (), wings can serve as flippers.

~~Bird's wing - Wikipedia~~

A bird's wings are no use on the ground, so it folds them away neatly when it lands. You can see the main flight feathers folded on either side of its body. On birds with longer wings, the tips of the primaries stick out near its tail. The bird's 'shoulders' that
